2380 FEET NEW SEWER PROPOSED

BY CITY COUNCIL IN ORDINANCE INTRODUCED AT MEETING.

WATER RATE REDUCTION

May Be Effected at Special Session Friday—More Paving In City Being Discussed.

An ordinance calling for 2,380 feet of sewer on Lincoln street and also extending north on Mulberry street from Lincoln street to connect up with present sewer at Torrance street was introduced last night at a meeting of the City Council. The ordinance will be held for seven days until final adoption and the bids for the contract will be opened at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of July 14.

The ordinance calls for approximately 1,640 feet of six-inch vitrified clay sewer pipe and 740 feet of eight-inch vitrified clay sewer pipe. The work will commence at the latest, ten days after the contract is awarded and must be completed within sixty days after the award of the contract.

The specifications for laying of the new sewer pipes follow:

Along south side of Lincoln street starting at a point sixteen feet south of center of intersection of Mulberry and Lincoln streets and extending west 300 feet. Also commencing at point sixteen feet south of center of intersection of Lincoln and Mulberry streets and extending north of Mulberry to connect with the present sewer at intersection of Mulberry and Torrance streets, a distance of 763 feet. Also starting at point on Lincoln street sixteen feet south of center of intersection of Mulberry and Lincoln streets and extending east along south side of Lincoln street, a distance of 500 feet; and also commencing at point sixteen feet north of center of intersection of Lincoln and Mulberry and extending east along the north side of Lincoln street a distance of 500 feet.

The sewers in Lincoln street are to be constructed at a distance of sixteen feet from the center line of said street and on the side of street; and in the center of Mulberry. The sewers are to be of six-inch sewer pipe all except on Mulberry street, which sewer is to be an eight-inch pipe. The ordinance specifically states that the sewers are to be of the best quality of vitrified clay sewer pipe. Bids will be received based on price per lineal foot.

The City Council will meet again Friday evening. At this time the commissioners will decide to either lower the city water rates or let the rates remain the same. The City Council is in favor of lowering the rates, one of the Commissioners said this morning, but there yet remains some discussion as to how the rates shall be lowered on a uniform basis so that it will affect the big and little consumers of water equally.

There is still some sentiment for more paving this summer besides what is in actual construction. Lloyd Geist is in favor of the block on Walnut street between Third and Fourth streets being paved. Also there has been some discussion for paving a portion of North Mulberry street.

The application of J. E. Holt for a permit to erect a filling and service station on the southwest corner of Buchanan and Fourth streets was favorably received and the Council granted the permit.

The commissioners last evening refused to grant the application of N. Sisson who is wanting to move the frame building North of the Christian Church to a lot on West Fourth street, east of Albert Williams property. As it is within the fire limits, the building cannot be moved unless it is made a fireproof structure.

NEW MEETING MAY AID LAFOLLETTE

CONFERENCE TO FIGHT FOR SENATOR'S PROPOSALS.

TO BE HELD ON JULY 4

Will Be Dominated, To Great Extent, By Railroad Labor Unions—Increasing In Prestige.

Washington, June 18.—The drive in behalf of Senator Robert M. La Follette for the Presidency of the United States will receive considerable impetus July 4 from the convention of the Conference for Progressive Political Action at Cleveland, Ohio.

La Follette was one of the organizers of this conference, dominated to a great extent by the railroad labor unions, which succeeded a year ago in electing to Congress a number of the candidates which it endorsed and which now proposes to repeat the performance on a grander scale, even to the extent, perhaps, of directly participating in the election of a President.

The headquarters of the Conference for Progressive Political Action is in Washington, and its chairman is William M. Johnston president of the International Association of Machinists, one of the leading railroad unions. Arthur E. Holder, secretary of the conference, is in charge of plans for the Cleveland convention, and he is being flooded with requests for credentials from scores of farmers' organizations, labor unions and other groups which are disappointed with Government as it is.

Increased Political Factor.

The pot-shot which Senator La Follette took at the "communist convention" in St. Paul has added to the prestige of the Conference for Progressive Political Action and increased its importance as a factor in this year's Presidential campaign.

"It is the business of the conference," says an official statement from its headquarters, "to see that the protest of the millions of citizens against the enslavement of the American people to a predatory financial despotism be made articulate. We propose to voice this protest now and to continue to voice it until that despotism shall be removed.

"In the Congressional campaign of 1922 the conference secured a balance of power in Congress. This has worked to the people's benefit. The issue now is the election of a majority in Congress. In every Congressional District, and in every State where a Senator is to be chosen, the Progressives will have an active candidate, pledged to democracy in government as against special privilege ownership of government.

To Win Progressive Majority.

"We have proven that a balance of power in Congress is not enough to secure constructive legislation. That was shown in the struggle for the Howell-Barkley Railroad Labor bill and the fight for the Norris-Sinclair Farm Relief bill. In the present House we have seen the balance of power turned by a large group of ignorant and indifferent individuals in both parties, when issues arose between reactionaries and progressives. The battle to win a progressive majority in the Sixty-ninth Congress is a battle for every constructive principle for which we have organized the people's forces."

Among the planks in the platform of the Conference are:

1. Repeal of the Esch-Cummins act, and for public ownership of railroads.

K. O. P. SPONSORS STUDENTS' HOME

PICTURE SHOW FRIDAY AND SATURDAY UNDER AUSPICES.

HOME ECONOMIC PROJECT

Would Maintain a Model Home—To Be Furnished and Kept by Home Economic Students.

The Kappa Omicron Phi organization, composed of students who are majoring or minoring in Home Economics at the local State Teachers College, is sponsoring the picture show, "If Winter Comes," at the Empire on Friday and Saturday nights.

The proceeds of the picture show are to be used by the organization towards the building of a fund to secure a Student's Home which would be used as a project household for the Home Economics students.

Miss Hettie M. Anthony said this morning on commenting on the proposed Student Home which the Kappa Omicron Phi organization is working for, said that the home economics department at the College has grown in size during the last year and greatly needed this project work. She predicted that the students would have sufficient funds by next year to purchase the home.

The student home projects are popular among the Colleges in the western states. The members of the home economics class furnish and care for the home along the most modern methods. A number of the schools have adopted orphans to nurse and raise. In this way the students are taught in a practical method the home economic work.

The teachers in the Home Economics department at the College are Miss Hettie M. Anthony, Miss Irene Teagarden and Miss Lucile Star. There are about seventy students attending the College who are majoring in the home economics work. Ten of these received degrees this spring and all have been placed as teachers in schools which pay high salaries.

The Kappa Omicron Phi organization which is sponsoring the Student Home project is composed of all students who have made an average of "S" in at least fifteen hours of Home Economics work. Miss Lena Johnson is president o fthe organization this summer.

Miss Johnson Pleases in Recital at College

Her Flexible Voice With Power and Wide Range Make Interpretations Well Rendered

Miss Rae Johnson, mezzo-soprano, who was heard in recital last night at the College auditorium, was most cordially greeted by an audience made up largely of music students and lovers of the art. She has an attractive personality and her interpretations were given with a conscientious regard for the mood and character of the music portrayed. Her voice has flexibility and power and a wide range of tone. Most of her selections were in French and her enunciation was of a clear and pleasing quality. She was at her best in the aria "Pleurez mes yeux" from le Cid by Massenet and as encore she sang "My Heart At Thy Sweet Voice," from Samson and Delilah. This was also an attractive number. After her concluding group she sang two numbers as encore.

Mrs. Elva Faeth Rider, accompanist and pianist who assisted in the program, divided honors with Miss Johnson and made an impression highly favorable. Her second number, "Caprice Espagnol" by Moszkowski, was especially effective and brought forth enthusiastic applause.

The concert was sponsored by the College Conservatory of Music.

Mrs. Rider returned to Kansas City this morning and Miss Johnson will remain for a short visit with Miss Blanche Dow, with whom she at one time taught. The young women were members of the faculty of the former Grand River College at Gallatin.

3RD PARTY HEADED FOR DESTRUCTION

IS REPORT FROM CONVENTION AT ST. PAUL, MINN.

MAHONEY LOSES POWER

Says Communists Double-Crossed Him And If He Loses Control Farmer-Laborites Will Walk Out

St. Paul, June 18.—The third party farmer-labor progressive convention, here, which has steered none too steady a course on its maiden journey, appeared headed straight for destruction today.

The Communists admittedly held the advantage and with a powerful offensive virtually took control away from William Mahoney of St. Paul who first decided to debar the radicals and then offered no objections to their being seated.

Mahoney said the Communists double-crossed him and if he loses control entirely his men, who are the farmer-laborites, will walk out and declare the convention over. They will clear the hall and lock the doors.

Mexico Spurns Offer of British Premeir

MacDonald Offers to Withdraw Cummins If Obregon Will Apologize for Ordering Expulsion.

London, June 18.—Premier MacDonald's offer to withdraw H. A. C. Cummins as British Charge de Affairs to Mexico if the Mexican government would apologize to him for ordering him expelled, has been flatly refused by the Obregon government.

The Mexican communication, which was transmitted through the Mexican consul at London was characterized by officials as "offensive." They declared that Mexico is very tactless.

Mexico City, June 18—Mexico's order expelling British Charge de Affairs Cummins may be modified as the result of the intercesion of neutral diplomats, it was learned this afternoon, but the foreign office said that Mexico would insist that Cummins must go.

The British official was still under guard at the British legation today although food supplies were running low and it was expected that he would have to leave the building soon.

Wabash ill Repair Sewer Near Trestle

The Wabash railroad company has let the contract to repair the sewer, north of their trestle, in east Maryville, according to Mayor Garrett. This trestle was filled in a few years ago and since that time many repairs had to be made from time to time.

The materials for the work are in the Wabash yards here. There is one car of sand, one of cement, one of rock and one of gravel. It is expected the work will start within the next several days.

The Wabash will also make repairs under their viaduct on North Main street. During the recent heavy rains, much of the bank near the viaduct was washed out. A retaining wall will be built.

M'ADOO IS AGAINST TWO-THIRDS RULE

SUPPORTERS CAN CONTROL COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

HAS OILED MACHINERY

His Opponents Concede He Will Poll Majority Vote at Some Time in Convention.

New York, June 18.—It is McAdoo against the field.

Backed by one of the strongest organizations that any candidate ever took into a national convention and supremely confident of their ability to nominate their man as well as control the convention machinery, the McAdoo managers served notice today they are going to battle on everything from platform to rules. The formidable McAdoo strength and proposed tactics are such that all opposing candidacies being driven into each other's arms for self-protection.

The McAdoo managers will support a fight to abrogate the rule that requires a winning candidate to obtain two-thirds of the delegates, in this case 732. Abolition of the rule will be opposed by every candidate opposed to McAdoo.

The supporters of Governor Al Smith will fight it because they believe that McAdoo, at one time or another, will be able to get a majority, he will never be able to get two-thirds of the votes in the convention.

It was estimated today McAdoo will have thirty members on the rules committee of fifty-four. This is enough to bring in a majority report if they all hang together.

Substantial agreement has been reached among the leaders here for Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, one of the Senate's chief investigators, to be permanent chairman of the convention.

Obituary of Mrs. Jefferson Broyles

Angeline Shields was born in Kentucky, January 13, 1838 and died June 10, 1924 at the St. Francis, Hospital, Maryville, Missouri aged eighty-six years, four months and twenty-seven days. She was married to Jefferson Broyles, March 5, 1854. They resided near Brownville, Nebraska until 1866 when they came to Nodaway County, Missouri and resided on a farm about nine miles west of Maryville and lived in that vicinity ever since.

Her husband preceded her in death in 1915.

To this union ten children were born, five of which died in early childhood and one daughter, Sarah, wife of Nick Thull died in 1889; the other four surviving children, Mrs. Amand Closser, of Kansas City, Missouri, Mrs. Jennie Thull of Hopkins, Missouri, Mr. Asa J. Broyles of Broken Bow, Nebraska and Mrs. Alice Dalrymple of Burlington Junction, Missouri were present at the funeral services. She leaves twenty-one grandchildren and eighteen great-grand children.

Her death was due to declining years. Three weeks before her death she sustained a fall resulting in a broken hip which doubtless hastened her death.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Shemwell of Maryville, Missouri, June 11 at Wilcox, Missouri from the home of a nephew, Mr. Charles Broyles, and the body was laid to rest in the Cain cemetery near there.

WHAT IS ADVERTISING?

Business men would do well to get these facts straight in their minds. Advertising is a source of revenue, not a tax on profits. Advertising gets volume and volume gets profits. Advertising increases turnover and increased turnover means increased income. Advertising is an investment, not an expense.

But advertising is not simply getting your name printed on a sheet of paper. Advertising is carrying an honest, convincing statement to possible buyers through a medium that reaches the buyers who are able to buy and likely to want the goods the advertiser has to sell.

The greatest orator in the world can go out into the middle of a forty acre field by himself and make a speech and it amounts to nothing. His effort is wasted. But, if he can make that speech to an audience of three or five thousand people, it will find lodgment and he will be widely acclaimed.

It is just so with an advertisement. If it is a forceful recital of fact and has a real audience, it will get results, but it must have an audience and the bigger the audience the bigger the response.

THE BUDGET'S VALUE

The budget system in handling national expenditures has proved its worth, Director of the Budget Lord states in a recent address to a gathering of credit men. It is here to stay, he asserts, and the great recommendation in its favor is the fact that it has been successful in converting a threatened deficit of $30,000,000 into a potential surplus of $229,000,000.

In view of the success which the budget has achieved in national affairs during the short time which it has been in effect and considering the great success which the scheme has long met within business circles it is the more surprising that the federal government was so long in adopting the system. Naturally the budget is unpopular with politicians; it works to the disadvantage of huge pork barrel appropriations. But the taxpayers like it and wise senators and representatives will see that the system is continued.

It ought to be adopted in the States but a budget provision was voted down in Missouri in the constitutional amendment election last February.

MARK'S MANTLE SAFE

What about William M. Butler, Mr. Coolidge's campaign manager? When the convention was called to order Tuesday morning, Butler was the most impressive personage in Cleveland. The parochially known Massachusetts manufacturer of a few months before had emerged with a bang. He was of such stature, this new Warwick, as to stretch the mantle of Mark Hanna.

The convention was in his hands. He had made all the arrangements to let the delegates carry out his program. Every coign of vantage was occupied by the faithful. The Old Guard that had bedeviled and betrayed the President had been obliviated. They were only among those present.

Up to the final order of business—that of selecting a candidate for Vice-President—the Butler magic prevailed. It was at the finish, though, that the bungling began. He failed intuitively to perceive what the native politician would have recognized at a glance, namely, that the delegates, weary of obeying orders, were in a mood to mutiny if driven further. Butler, however, still cracked the whip and, in consequence, suffered a defeat which impairs his prestige and which gave the Old Guard a chance to chastise the harsh taskmaster.

Mr. Butler is now chairman of the National Republican Committee and charged with the responsibility of directing the Coolidge campaign. It will not be surprising, though, if the Old Guard is called into counsel and partially restored to control before November. In any event there is no danger of Mr. Butler's bursting the Mark Hanna mantle.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

Wall street has a buddy in national politics. La Salle Street of Chicago has also broken into the big game.

Those fellows who were against McAdoo before the state primary are now of the opinion that the delegates should not vote for him.

A lady may go down town and "shop" all afternoon but when hubby hangs around the stores an hour and a half he is just an ordinary loafer.

Should Congress Question The Cabinet?

Ira Nelson Morris, President of Uncle Sam's Voters, Washington, D. C.

One proposal that has been made several times of late, with the idea of promoting the efficiency of our governmental mechanism, is that of requiring the cabinet officials from time to time to appear on the floor of Congress to answer questions put to them by Senators and Representatives. The practice of "interpellation" in England, which is exactly that, is a feature of parliamentary governments generally, and although there has not been much agitation in this country as yet for the substitution of our system by a parliamentary system, it is felt that this particular feature of the parliamentary system could be adopted, if it seemed advisable, without working any harm to our institutions. In the parliamentary form, of course, the legislative department of the government is supreme; in ours, the legislative, executive and judicial are coordinate. But to have cabinet members appear in Congress for questioning would not tend to unsettle the present governmental distribution of functions.

Constant changes are going on in our government as it is; President Wilson, for example, instituted the idea of appearing in person before Congress to deliver his messages, and his successors have continued the practice. President Harding did an even more revolutionary thing in inviting Mr. Coolidge to attend the cabinet meetings; yet as it turned out, the step was almost providential.

Members of the cabinet now meet newspaper men daily, or at stated intervals, and submit to questioning; indeed, the President himself does the same thing. There is therefore a precedent, and the unofficial representatives of the people, the press, certainly are entitled to no more consideration than the official representatives, so far as that is concerned. But the newspaper men, of course, seek out the cabinet officials, and so too do Senators and Representatives if there are special subjects on which they seek information. Whether it would be advisable for the cabinet members to visit the Capitol weekly for interpellation is another matter, and one which is now being widely considered. Senator Couzens has introduced a bill providing for it.

YES.

1. Efficient co-operation of government departments would be greatly facilitated by such a practice. At present the Congress is out of touch with the cabinet as a whole. Individual members of Congress may meet individual cabinet members often, in regard to matters of special interest to them; but a better plan would be to have the whole cabinet in close touch with Congress as a whole. Periodic interpellations would make that possible.

2. Congress ought to have accurate immediate, firsthand information as to what the executive departments are doing. At present it must rely on the press, which may be wrong, and members of Congress who are most interested in a particular matter may not find it easy, because of their own engagements and those of a cabinet official, to make appointments for some days. Perhaps quicker action would have been obtained on the naval oil leases if former Secretary Fall could have been questioned in the Senate at the time they were made.

3. It is easier for ten cabinet members to come to the Capitol, at one time, than for about 500 Senators and Representatives to go to the cabinet officials. The latter, indeed, is quite impossible, for the cabinet members could not see them all individually. The proposal of interpellation would solve all the difficulties.

4. There would be no more danger of "leaks" than is the case now. It is the practice for cabinet officials to talk freely to newspaper correspondents, and to rely upon them not to print certain things which might be embarrassing to the administration if they received publicity. What can be printed and what cannot is distinctly indicated, and there are practically no instances of an official's confidence having been betrayed. Congress, in executive session if necessary, should be trustworthy.

5. There is no reason why it would be impracticable to have the cabinet officials visit Congress. It would not take more than two hours a week at most, and several of them give much more time than that to newspaper men. So far as Congress is concerned, it would probably actually save time, for now Congress must request information, formally, through the cumbersome procedure of resolutions, which are most time-consuming.

6. There is no compulsion upon a cabinet official to answer a question. It is the practice in England to reply to an embarrassing question in such a way as to tell what can be told with regard to departmental policy; but it is always easy to say that it is for the best interests of the government to withhold certain information.

7. The whole purpose of the plan would be merely to save time and labor, and those ends it probably would accomplish.

NO.

1. The whole procedure would lead to endless bickerings. There are a great many questions that the department heads could not answer in the public interest, and the others are readily enough obtainable by Congress in any event. A mere request for information by a member, transmitted through the mail or by telephone, is usually sufficient, and resolutions need be introduced only under formal circumstances. To subject cabinet officers to questioning in Congress would create more trouble than it would avoid.

2. Such questioning gives no opportunity for thought as to what is expedient when vital matters of policy are involved. The wisest course on the part of the cabinet official doubtless would be to evade a direct answer, but it is possible that he might make a reply that would be highly inopportune, if confronted by an unexpected question. Time should be provided for consideration.

3. Political heckling would result. Members of the opposition would take advantage of the opportunity to put the cabinet in as bad a light as possible. There is altogether too much partisan warfare in Congress as it is, and this would simply mean invoiving the administration directly. So much time would be consumed in arguments with Congress that the work of executive and legislative branches would suffer alike.

4. Conditions here are unlike those in Great Britain. There the cabinet is directly responsible to the majority in Parliament, and its acts are practically the acts of Parliament itself, since it is the agent of Parliament. But in this country the cabinet represents not Congress but the President, and it is responsible to him only. The relation of agency does not obtain in the same way as Europe. The President meets the cabinet regularly, and the only purpose that would be served by interpellations in Congress is that of informing Congress, for which other means are already provided.

5. The President is co-ordinate with Congress, and his acts and those of his cabinet are not, under our Constitution, subject to any congressional supervision except where he acts in conjunction with Congress. It would mean a sacrifice of dignity and independence on the part of the Presidency to have the cabinet questioned in Congress.

6. Only a few cabinet members would be called upon, ordinarily, and it would be a waste of time and effort for the whole cabinet to go. The Secretaries of State and Treasury would be most in demand, but others would be asked for seldom. Therefore the present arrangement is better.

7. The practice would encourage congressional meddling with the executive, and friction between the two branches often becomes too severe even under the present conditions.

PICNIC TIME.

It's June agin, an' in my soul I feel the fillin' joy
That's sure to come this time o' year to every little boy;
For every June the Sunday Schools at picnic may be seen,
Where "fields beyond the swellin' Floods stands dressed in livin' green";
Where little girls are skeered to death with spiders, bugs, and ants,
An' little boys get grass stains on their go-to-meetin' pants.
It's June agin, an' with it all what happiness is mine—
There's goin' to be a picnic an' I'm goin' to jine!

—Eugene Field.

A cynical bachelor says it is no trouble at all for a man to convince his wife that he doesn't know much.

It is picnic time again when we can eat bugs in our sandwiches and cakes.

CAN SAVE WHEN SELLING STOCK

BY USING PRODUCERS MARKETING AGENCIES, FIGURES SHOW

2.15 PER CENT LESS

Data Gathered on Carload Shipments From 4 Markets—Farmers Get 93.55 Per Cent Total Value.

In the May bulletin, published by the Bureau of Railroad Economics, Washington, D. C., figures are to show how farmers may lower their livestock marketing cost through the Producers Livestock Marketing agencies. This publication states that their research work shows that the market net to the farmers or livestock shipper using the old methods of marketing he received 91.4 per cent of the value of his livestock. Or in other words it took 8.6 per cent of the value of the livestock to pay the freight, commission, yardage and other incidental expenses in the marketing of the livestock.

In comparison to this the above publication shows the market net to the farmer when marketing through the Producers Livestock marketing agency as 93.55 per cent of the value of his livestock. This makes the marketing cost 6.45 per cent of the value of the livestock, or 2.15 per cent less than the old line method of marketing the farmers stock.

This information coming from an unbiased agency, which to get the above figures checked up carload shipments on four different markets, E. St. Louis, Chicago, Kansas City and South Omaha, in order to get the above information is further proof of Producers success in lowering marketing costs.

This information was gathered this year and proves that the advocates of cooperative marketing have been right in preaching that to lower your marketing cost, use of the Producers Agencies. The livestock shipments that were checked in getting the above figures, originated in twenty-eight different states and represented over 140,000 head. Probably the saving is as large as it is not only because of cheaper commission rates but more uniform loading of cars to the proper weight in order to avoid high freight rates per hundred pounds. It is a known fact that shipping associations shipping from one to several cars per week have an opportunity to load thier cars to a maximum weight with out loss to better advantage than to old line buyers of livestock.

MEXICAN CAMPAIGN IS NOW UNDER WAY

CALLES MAKING WHIRLWIND CAMPAIGN OF COUNTRY.

INDIAN IS CANDIDATE

Both Contestants Proclaim Respect Of All International Obligations —Election In July.

Mexico City, June 18.—There is every indication that the Presidential election in Mexico the first Sunday in July will be an orderly one, in spite of an undercurrent of rumors to the contrary.

The candidates are Plutarcus Elias Calles and Angel Flores.

The first one is of that celebrated triumvirate that came up from Sonora to dominate Mexico and restore a Government which the United States recognized. President Obregon was the chief, de la Huerta and Calles the lieutenants.

Together they worked until recently when de la Huerta severed his friendship, started a revolution against the Obregon Government and finally sought safety in the United States. While President Obregon is a neutral and promises a fair election, Calles quite naturally falls heir to such a following as has been built up about the Sonora group.

Flores Mostly Indian.

Flores is the present Governor of the State of Sinaloa. He is almost pure Indian, well educated and extremely popular. He is one of the people—a laborer, cargador, or bearer of burdens, and then later, as a young man, a longshoreman. But he developed extremely conservative tendencies, while his opponent leans far in the other direction.

Each, however, has publicly proclaimed that in the event of his election all international obligations will be respected and no foreign interest need have any concern.

Both declare that capital will be invited into the country and given every encouragement. Calles has announced many radical policies; but, he says, that these concern internal matters only.

The campaign is an interesting one. Although there have been persistent reports that the Government favors Calles and will assist his candidacy, Flores has established his headquarters in Mexico City and frequently is seen walking or driving about the streets. He conducts what would be a "front porch" campaign in theStates.

Calles Touring Country.

Calles, on the other hand, is making a nation-wide drive. With special train and private car, he is continuously on the move, making as many as three speeches daily and seldom in the same place more than one day.

What the outcome will be no one well informed will say. But all agree that the young will be free of practices which have characterized previous elections in Latin America. Such influence as ordinarily would be brought to bear would originate in Mexico City. To guard against any implication of this kind, President Obregon has just retired to his home in Sonora, two days' journey, to leave the political field open to the two candidates.

464 Women to New York Convention

Washington, June 18—At least 464 women will attend the Democratic national convention as delegates or alternates. Of this number, it was made known at the Democratic national committee headquarters here today, 143 will sit as delegates-at-large, 34 as district delegates, 78 as alternates-at-large and 209 as district alternates. These figures, it explained, do not include all of the women delegates and alternates from Virginia nor any from Alebama.

The Democratic national convention has had "50-50" representation for men and women since 1920. In 1912 only 2 women took part in the Baltimore convention; in 1916 at St. Louis 15 delegates and 7 alternates sat, while in 1920 at San Francisco there were 96 women delegates and 202 women alternates.

Miss Hankins Writes a Pamphlet of Verse

Missouri has another budding poet. The Columbia Missourian says:

Miss Helen Hope Hankins, a Christian College student, has written a pamphlet of verse dedicated to her mother. She calls her verses "poemettes" as none is more than fourteen lines in length.

There are ten poems in the pamphlet, which is called "First Verses." One, with the title, "In the Ozarks," she says, expresses thoughts that came to her one night while visiting there.

And in the still of night you'll hear
Pan's witching, throbbing note,
A cameo of life and love
As from a thrush's throat.
A sound that touches every heart,
More than sign or prayer
Trembling from the reeds of Pan,
The joy that's hidden there.

NO ESCAPING UNIT RULE APPLICATION

SAYS FERRIS CONCERNING CITY DEMOCRATIC DELEGATIONS

OPPOSITION TO M'ADOO

By 8 To 10—Senator Warns Anti-McAdoo Forces Not To Attempt To Break Ruling

(St. Louis Globe-Democrat)

Frank H. Farris of Rolla, a delegate-at-large to the Democratic National Convention, who will be one of the floor leaders for William G. McAdoo, presidential candidate, said Monday that the credentials of the Missouri delegates, which have been certified to the Democratic National Committee, to show that the Missouri delegates are bound by the unit rule and that the St. Louis and Kansas City delegates and others opposing it cannot escape its application.

The Democratic State Convention at Springfield employed the following language in instructing the delegates to vote as a unit: "We instruct this delegation to vote as a unit on questions as a majority may determine, except that they may, by a majority vote on any question, absolve themselves from the unit rule and vote individually."

Farris construes this language to mean that nineteen of the Missouri delegates can bind the thirty-six upon any proposition before the convention.

Whether nineteen delegates are in favor or opposed to any proposition before the convention will be determined by a poll of the delegates. As a majority view the proposal, the entire thirty-six will be voted.

Farris said it will be impossible for the minority to avoid being voted under the unit rule. He said there is precedent for the rule and that the National Convention is certain to follow it.

Opponents of McAdoo.

Certainly eight and probably ten of Missouri's thirty-six votes would be cast against McAdoo, and against the things that his managers advocate, if the unit rule were abrogated.

The eight deelgates openly opposed to McAdoo are:

Thomas J. Pendergast and Joseph B. Shannon, delegates in the Fifth District.

Louis J. Gualdoni and Charles A. Lemp, delegates in the Tenth.

M. J. Whalen and Jack Keegan, delegates in the Eleventh.

State Senator Michael Kinney, or his alternate, and Justice of the Peace Edward Rice in the Twelfth District.

The Fifth District comprises Jackson County and Kansas City. The Eleventh and Twelfth are wholly in St. Louis. The Tenth comprises a part of St. Louis and all of St. Louis County.

Joseph B. Shannon of Kansas City, who was here Sunday, said a fight will be made Monday at the meeting of the Missouri delegates at the McAlpin Hotel in New York to abrogate the unit rule. He will be backed up in his demand for the abrogation of the rule by Pendergast and the St. Louis delegates.

To Use Oil Testimony

Shannon in his fight to abrogate the unit rule, is likely to review the Doheny oil testimony, McAdoo's employment by the Morse interests and the statements made by Farris, Senator Charles H. Mayer and some of the members of Congress, concerning the availability of McAdoo, immediately after Doheny testified about the employment of McAdoo. Shannon is known to be collecting the data for a spirited fight in the Missouri meeting.

Missouri Democrats, who opposed the presidential aspirations of Senator Reed and who likewise are opposed to McAdoo, and the active Reed Democrats are standing together in their demand for the abolition of the unit rule. John D. Taylor of Chariton County, former State Senator, who Sunday issued a statement assailing the unit rule and making the argument that it was leveled by the state convention only against Reed, prepared his statement after conference with Democrats opposed to McAdoo. These included a number of the Missouri delegates and a number of Democratic leaders not members of the delegation. His statement represented the composite view of the Reed and anti-Reed Democrats opposed to McAdoo.

Farris Issues Warning

Farris, before leaving for New York, warned the anti-McAdoo forces that they might be given several bitter pills if they attempted to get from under the unit rule. He said if they kicked up too much of a row they "might be voted for prohibition and a number of things they did not like."

It is likely, Farris said, that at the outset a vote of the delegates will be taken to bind the thirty-six to vote for McAdoo on the first five ballots. He said that would save time in polling the delegates after each ballot.

McAdoo's Missouri managers are gathering in New York. Breckinridge Long and W. R. Hollister of Jefferson City are there. Farris will be in New York today. Charles M. Hay will leave for New York Friday.

Take Profit From War.

7. International action by the United States to outlaw war, and abolition of profit in the manufacture of this country's war materials.

One can almost imagine that it is the voice of Senator La Follette speaking when officers of the Conference outline their political views and hope sfor the future.

Referring to the Republican and Democratic national conventions, one of these officers said:

"We know that the people will accept no excuses, no pretenses, no masking of candidates of predatory interests. The people will take back their government and make it serve the common good."
